The Palais Royal Opening.

The numerous patrens of the Palais Royal appreciate what is meant by the announcement of an "opening" at that popular establishment. In celebration of the occasion, the window-dresser has worked wonders behind the expanse of plate glass which transforms the two extensive fronts of the first floor into a great show window. In one window may be seen the richest silks and accessories for evening wear, while in another are the new wool fabrics for spring street wear. In another place are shown the cotton dress fabrics of the season of 1805, while there is exhibited new linen, cotton underwear, etc. It goes without saying that the ladies will be spe-cially interested in the features of the Palais Royal opening.

The Polyglot Petition.

Mrs. M. E. One Man Wanted to Be Arrested and Sent Down.

Sad Cases in the Police Court Today-Intoxicated Man as an Exhibit.

A poorly clad young man, who has but one leg, met Policeman Tracy on the street yesterday and told a tale of poverty and destitution.

"I lost my leg several years ago," he said, "but I will work if I can get it. I have been out of work for a long time now ard haven't had anything to eat since early yesterday morning.

"What do you want me to do for you?" the policeman asked. "Arrest me and send me down," the unfortunate man responded. The officer arrested him and this morning he led the procession in Judge Kimball's

There were only twenty-six prisoners in the dock for trial in both courts, a smaller number than there was any day last week. There was an absence of the tramps, who so largely increased the number last week, and most of these who made up the procession were residents of this city.

When the prisoner referred to above was arraigned he plead guilty.

The officer told his side of the case and the young man said he had no defense to

"Where do you belong?" the judge asked "I live here in Washington," was his "And do you want to go down?"

Yes, sir. "How long a sentence do you want?"
"Well, judge," he answered, "I would like to go down until work on the new cable road starts and then I'm going to work.

What kind of work can you do?" "Carry water."
"Thirty days."

Had Been a Fight.

John Plowden and Frank Herbert, colered, appeared on a charge of disorderly conduct, said guilty and went down in default of fine.

Policeman Frank Hughes appeared in the case of two young men, William Barnes and George McLaughlin, who were charged dramatic writer as Martha Morton by so with disorderly conduct.

"Late last night," said the officer, "I as William H. Crane was an occasion heard a noise on D street and judged from the nature of the noise that there was a fight in progress. When I reached the men they were not fighting, but their clothes It has power, too, and with some slight were covered with dirt and they presented the appearance of having been in a right." "We had been over to Jackson City," was the explanation made by one of the men. This excuse was of no avail, for the court fined them $5 each.

Charles Brown, a colored boy, admitted that he disturbed the quiet of Defrees street and went down because he did not "I don't know whether I'm guilty or not,"

was what a colored man named George Gant said when arraigned for being dis-orderly in the O street market. "Say whether you are guilty or not guilty," the bailiff said to him. "Well, I guess I'm guilty."

"Five dollars."

Had a Fuss

Lucy Chunn, a colored woman, has had quarrels with her husband, but she has not yet reached the conclusion that "marriage is a failure."

"We had a little fuss the other night," said Lucy, "but that didn't amount to nothing. "I heard the trouble," said the officer in

Lucy did not make a satisfactory explanation of the charge against her, and the court imposed a line of $5.

David Rodgers made a bold effort to break into the work house. He was drunk when he called at the court building this morning, and staggered into the dock, but as there was no charge against him the keeper ordered him out.

But the drunken ran did not have his senses about him sufficient to understand what he was doing, and instead of going home when warned he loitered about the court until he got locked up.
"He'll be out in a lew minutes," said the bailiff, when the man was called. "What's the matter with him?" asked the presecuting attorney.

"He's drunk," the bailiff answered, "and can't make much headway."

"If he's drunk," said the judge, "don't let him come in court. I am not going to try a drunken man."
"The charge," Mr. Pugh explained, "is that he was found drunk, and why not hie him as an exhibit?" He will be tried temorrow.

Saturday night Albert Linkins was in the Riggs market, and because an officer refused to arrest another man for him he became very disorderly. "If he is fined," Lawyer Moss told the court, "he will lose his position, and his family will suffer." Judge Kimball said that the man was a little rate, but he released him on his own recognizance.

Raiph Smith was the last prisoner in the "He was trying to sell a ham that had been stolen by another boy, named Smith," said the officer, who charged that the prisoner also used profane and boisterous language, as well as threatening to kill the temple, Grand Superintendent Russell semebody when he gets out. A fine of $10 was imposed.

Oratorio on Sunday Night.

The First Congregational Church was packed to its doors last night by an audience, largely composed of lovers of music of the devotional order, who came to hear Sullivan's oratorio of "The Prodigal Son," rendered by Dr. Bischoff's choir, and those who were fortunate enough to gain access to the building were well paid by hearing an artistic renditon of this work, which is somewhat new to Washingtonians. The choir, numbering sixty-six voices, sung the choruses in fine style, with shading and precision that is remarkable, considering the absence of a leader's baton, especially in the baccharal chorus, "Let Us Eat and Drink," and the hallelujah finale. Miss Cora Boyd sung the solo, "O, That Ye Had Harkened Unto My Commands," with tenderness and pathes, as also did Miss Mcthe women from the coming banquet was lost by a vote of 8 to 7, many members not lost by a vote of 8 to 7, many members not cold, which at times impaired the quality cold, which at times impaired th of his upper tones, aside from which, how-ever, he sung the solo numbers, "Come Ye My Children" and "I Will Arise," with artistic taste. Mr. Elphonzo Youngs was in good voice, and sung the bass role in good style. Miss Elste Bond, at the piano, and Dr. Bischoff at the organ furnished an excellent support with the accompaniment. It is intended to give "The Daughter of Jairus," by Dr. Stainer, at one of the coming evenings with the choir.

The Saengerbund Concert.-The Wash ington Saengerbund held its second concert of this season at the Academy of Music last evening. The audience was a large one. The soloists were Mrs. Kitty Thompson Berry, Miss Margaret Eichhorn and Mr. Max Kaestl of Baltimore. The conductor was Mr. William Waldecker, and an orchestra of twenty-five pieces sustained the vocal music. The work of the band was an improvement even over that of the last concert, and fully deserved the applause it received. The orchestral numbers were also well performed. Mrs. Berry sang with her accustomed ease and effect, and Miss Eichhorn displayed a contralto voice of much purity and power. Mr. Kaestl proved himself a master of the violin, and his ability was promptly recog-nized. Prof. Waldecker has cause for great satisfaction at the result of these two concerts, both from a musical and a financial standpoint.

The C. C. Course.-Will Carleton, the ever popular poet, will deliver as the last entertainment of the "C. C." Course his beautiful poem lecture, "Better Times," at Metzerott Music Hail, Thursday evening next. Most of the authors who have gained distinction have utterly failed as lecturers, but Carleton is certainly an exception to the rule. He not only charms his audience by his effective and graceful delivery, by the wit, sparkle and beauty of the lines delivered, but also by the sound instruction contained within each period. The sale of seats opened this morning at Metzerott's.

Prof. Carpenter .- Prof. Carpenter still continues to give exhibitions at Odd Fellows' Hall every evening except Monday. That these entertainments are amusing is demonstrated by the crowded houses which greet the professor at every performance, knows. The prices are popular and the box office is open every evening from 2 to 4.

Lecture on Memory.—Prof. Boyd will lecture on memory at Gurley Memorial Church, Florida avenue northwest between 6th and 7th streets, tonight. The lecture is free, and all are invited. Calvary Baptist Church.-The concert of

be an interesting event. The quartet will be assisted by Miss Jessie G. Patton, elocutionist, who is in charge of the elocu-tionary branch of the Walter C. Lyman School of Expression in Chicago. New National Theater.—William H. Crane gave his new play at the New National Theater last Saturday with the most sat-isfactory results. Washington is favored with a large share of the initial productions of American attractions, and the presentacompetent and so highly esteemed an actor alterations will doubtless be a highly cu-joyable feature of the company's repertoire. Mr. Crane played the role of a self-made man with his usual skill and vigor, and the company was seen to advantage throughout the cast.

A Capital and Labor Debate. An interesting debate was held Saturday evening by the Debating Society of Columbian Law School on the question that organizations of capital and labor are for the best interests of society as a whole. President Walter Colquitt occupied the chair, and the judges were Mr. William Small, Mr. F. W. Vaughn and Judge D. S. Foster Messrs. W. B. Nixon, C. M. Lane and B. M. Doyle supported the affirmative, while Messrs. Seth E. Tracy, H. C. Evans and Alfred S. Dalton argued in the negative. The decision of the judges was in favor of Carroll Institute Dramatic Club.

The Carrell Institute Dramatic Club has decided to make its appearance before the public this winter in Tom Taylor's old English comedy, "Still Waters Run Deep." This is the same organization which gave the "Evenings With Shakespeare" last season. The young amateurs realize that they have a hard task before them in the rendition of this work, made especially so by the impressions left by such great acters as James W. Wallack, jr., Rose Etynge, E. L. Davenport and the Kendalls, but they hope to present the play in a manner that will bear criticism and even comparison.

Mr. James A. Mahoney will superintend the production, which is to-be rendered by the following cast: Mr. Potter, Mr. Percy Leach; Capt. Hawksley, Mr. J. Travis Cocker; John Mildmay, Mr. Ed. J. Walsh; Dunbilk, Mr. George H. O'Connor; Gimlet, Mr. J. J. Nolan; Langford, Mr. William S. McCurdy; Markham, Mr. James Banby; Jessop, Mr. John A. Pearson; Mrs. Stern-hold, Miss Anita Hendrie; Mrs. Mildmay, Miss Helene Lackave.

Silver Star Temple Meeting.

Good Templar Hall, Tenleytown, was well filled by members and friends of Silver Star Juvenile Temple Sunday afternoon. The meeting was under the auspices of presiding. Grand Chaplain J. S. Blackford conducted the devotional exercises, the choir of Silver Star Lodge leading the Anniversary of the Women's Christian Association.

The subjects of the library clerk examination will be orthography, penmanship, copying, arithmetic, beckmaking and scientific publications, French and German and agriculture. The subjects of the library cataloguer will be orthography, penmanship, letter writing, elements of the English language, arithmetic, modern languages (German and French), library economy, bibliography and literature of agriculture.

Two Years for Beach.

Judge McComas Saturday sentenced Wm. A. Beach, who was convicted several days ago of receiving a quantity of the postage stamps stolen last summer from the bureau of engraving and printing by Wm. B. Smith, to two years in the Albany peniten-tiary. Beach is said to be of an excellent family, a half brother of his being a judge in one of the New York courts. AFFAIRS IN IGEORGETOWN

Work of the Church and Temperance Organizations.

Notes of Important Events From Across Rock Greek-Personal and General Items.

After arousing and sustaining the greatest interest for two weeks, the Rev. Fathers O'Kane, Himmell and Campbell, the missionaries, closed their services last night at Trinity. There was an immense crowd present. The sermons that have been the features of all the mission services were powerfully delivered, the subjects being the nost effective ones. It is stated that seven thousand were brought to the communion rail during the past two weeks. Many had not been there for a term of years. There were a number of conversions, too. The missionaries attracted not only Catholics to the church by the report of their eloquence and power, but every denomination in town has been largely represented there nightly. In order to even up the crowd, i was thought wise to have special services for men and special ones for women. At 4 o'clock yesterday was held the last wo-man's service. The big house of prayer was packed to the doors.

Tonight his eminence, Cardinal Gibbons, will arrive at the church and confirm a large number of Trinity's congregation. After taking a week's rest the missionaries will begin a series of sermons at St. Aloysius Church, Washington. Father O'Kane will spend his holiday at the Georgetown College. On the conclusion of the St. Aloysius mission Fathers O'Kane, Himmell and Campbell will go to Africa in the cause of Temperance Meeting.

At the public temperance meeting of Faith Tent, No. 31, Female Branch of the I. O. of Rechabites, yesterday at Odd Fellows' Hall, there was a good-sized crowd in attendance. Mr. R. W. Johnson presided, and a stirring address was delivered by Mr. J. J. Blick. Five persons signed the pledge. The ladies of this tent have decided to hold public meetings every Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, to which the public is cordially invited.

Many Communions. At the Baptist Church here during the present series of revivals there have been fifty-seven conversions and fifteen baptisms. A large number have joined the church.

Yesterday the revivalist, Mr. Elsom, considers the most important day he has had here. In the afternoon there was a large attendance of men only, and in the evening people were turned away from the church after the galleries and aisles lad been packed.

The sermon was on "Sudden Destruc-tion." He that being often reproved hard-eneth his neck shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy.

Mr. Elsom read various letters from cities in which he had conducted revivais, in which were cited modern instances of sudden destruction, even among those he had personally known, and who had refused to accept the word.

Grace Church Rectory. The pastor and vestrymen of Grace Church are maturing their plans for the erection of a rectory. In all probability the house will be erected on a part of the present church property, between 31st, 32d, K and M streets. The trustees have $3,000 eash on hand for the purpose. Two-thirds of this amount was given the church through the will of the late Miss Gough, and the balance is what has been saved by the congregation, added to the gifts of Messrs. John Marbury, Geo. T. Dunlop and the case, "but I couldn't get in the house. Who is Responsible?

To the Editor of The Evening Star: As S. J. M. is confessedly in no position to be familiar with the interior life of a great government department, he is presumably not aware that the "injustices" are on the other side. The cases of "brutality" and "indignity" which are sometimes vaguely alluded to as existing, but of which a definite instance is never cited, are the fabrications or exaggerations of malcontents who are dissatisfied because they are expected to render an approximate equivalent for the salary which tney draw.

There are innumerable abuses on the part of these same employes who claim to be unfairly treated which would secure their prompt dismissal if officially reported to the appointing and discharging power. The rending of books and newspapers and atreading of books and newspapers and at-tending to private correspondence (often on paper which the department pays for) during office hours, visiting from room to room, thus occupying both the time of the visitor and the visited, and disturbing others by the conversation, and feigning illness in order to shirk duty, are direct abuses of daily occurrence. There are indirect abuses of an equal, if not greater, effect abuses of an equal, effect abuses of an equal effect abuses of an equal e fect upon the efficiency of clerical employes. I refer to the numbers of clerks who after office hours are engaged in occupations which unfit them for the efficient discharge of their duties in office, who in fact merely make their government positions a personal convenience. And when a conscientious official endeavors to exact from them a nearer approximation to what the department has a right to expect in return for the salaries that it pays, then there is an underhand whisper of "brutality," "cruelty," etc. Investigation would probably develop the fact that most of the cases of impaired eyesight, if real, are the results of overtaxation outside of office. But if there is any actual case of a superior being unnecessarily severe toward an inferior, again I ask: Who on earth compels the inferior to remain in a service where he is subjected to such treatment? CHIEF OF DIVISION.

THE EDGEWOOD LAND.

A Suit to Enforce a Trust Against Mr Needham and Mrs. Chase.

Meyer B. Newman has filed a bill in equity to enforce a trust aginst Charles W. Needham and Katherine Chase. It is stated that about September 26, 1892, Mrs. Chase was the owner of a tract of land ncw known as "Edgewood." On the date mentioned, it is claimed, the land was conveyed by deed to George D. Wyckoff, and the latter, on the same day, conveyed the real estate to Herman Walbridge and Archibald Greenlees to secure an indebtedness to Mrs. Chase of $15,000, represented by a promissory note. Walbridge and Greenlees later released the trust to Charles W.Need-

Wyckoff, on November 29, 1893, conveyed the property in question by deed to Needham as trustee, according to the bill. While Needham is described in the deed as trus-tee, no trusts are declared therein, but he is given power to convey the lots by sale. On December 5 Needham executed a certain declaration of trust, which was not recorded for more than a year after its execution. Mr. Newman alleges that he is the owner of promissory notes amounting to $3,000 made by Mrs. Chase, and that while they are not described in the declaration of trust referred to, they were intended. It is further stated that the trust requires eedham to sell the lots within one year, but he has not done so, and therefore the creditors of Mrs. Chase are unable to se cure judgment.

It is asked that the defendants be required to disclose the contents of any other declaration of trust if there be any, and that trustees be appointed to enforce the trust described. A Mine of Information.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa. Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a deficately flavored beverage, which may save us many heavy doctors bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies of feating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal phaft by leeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
